DEMERGER OF SOUTH32 – AUSTRALIAN TAXATION INFORMATION

The Australian Taxation Office has today issued Class Ruling CR 2015/40 with respect to the tax implications of the South32 demerger for Australian resident shareholders of BHP Billiton Limited.

The class ruling confirms that the receipt of South32 shares under the demerger is not taxable for Australian resident shareholders of BHP Billiton Limited. Such shareholders will be sent a letter providing further detail on the class ruling to assist in calculating the tax cost base allocation of BHP Billiton and South32 shares. A copy of the shareholder letter is attached to this announcement.

A guide to the general tax implications of the demerger is set out in Section 8 of the Shareholder Circular dated 16 March 2015. The Shareholder Circular, as well as further demerger tax information, is available at www.bhpbilliton.com/demerger.

Dear Shareholder,

Australian taxation implications of the Demerger Dividend

Following the approval of the demerger of South32 by BHP Billiton Limited and BHP Billiton Plc Shareholders on 6 May 2015, BHP Billiton implemented the Demerger by way of an in-specie distribution of South32 Shares to BHP Billiton Limited and BHP Billiton Plc Shareholders (Demerger Dividend). South32 Shares have since begun trading independently from BHP Billiton Shares.

A guide to the general tax implications of the Demerger Dividend for Shareholders is set out in Section 8 of the Shareholder Circular, which is available on BHP Billiton's website at www.bhpbilliton.com/demerger. Capitalised terms used in this letter have the meaning given to them in the Shareholder Circular, unless the context requires otherwise.

This letter provides additional information to assist Australian resident Shareholders of BHP Billiton Limited who hold their BHP Billiton Limited shares on capital account to calculate the tax cost base allocation which may be required.

Important information

This letter does not constitute tax advice. The information below does not take into account your individual investment objectives, financial situation or needs. It is not a complete analysis of all taxation laws which may apply to you in relation to the Demerger. You should consult with your own independent taxation adviser regarding the taxation implications of participating in the Demerger Dividend given the particular circumstances that apply to you.

Class ruling

As part of the Demerger, BHP Billiton sought a ruling from the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) on the taxation implications for Australian resident Shareholders of BHP Billiton Limited who hold their shares on capital account.

The ATO issued Class Ruling CR 2015/40, in accordance with the application made by BHP Billiton. A copy of the class ruling is available on the BHP Billiton's website at www.bhpbilliton.com/demerger.

The class ruling confirms that the Demerger Dividend will not be assessable income to Australian resident shareholders. A summary of the other key taxation implications for Shareholders that are covered by the class ruling is contained below.

(i) Post-CGT Australian resident Shareholders

If you acquired your BHP Billiton Limited Shares on or after 20 September 1985, the capital gains tax consequences will be the same, whether or not you choose demerger relief. These consequences are outlined below.

If you acquired your BHP Billiton Limited Shares on or after 20 September 1985 you must apportion the existing cost base of your BHP Billiton Limited Shares between your BHP Billiton Limited Shares and your South32 Shares that were distributed to you pursuant to the Demerger Dividend. The apportionment will be based on the volume weighted average prices (VWAP) of BHP Billiton Limited Shares and South32 Shares over the first five trading days on the Australian Securities Exchange (18 May 2015 to 22 May 2015 inclusive). The five day VWAP for BHP Billiton Limited and South32 were as follows:

BHP Billiton Limited	A$29.44	92.9%
South32	A$2.25	7.1%
Total	A$31.69	100%

The cost base of an Australian resident Shareholder's post-CGT BHP Billiton Limited Shares would therefore be allocated 92.9% to BHP Billiton Limited Shares and 7.1% to South32 Shares after the Demerger.

As an illustrative example, if an Australian resident Shareholder's post-CGT BHP Billiton Limited Shares held immediately prior to the implementation of the Demerger had a cost base of A$34.00 per Share, the cost base of each BHP Billiton Limited Share after the implementation of the Demerger would be 92.9% of A$34.00 or A$31.59 per share and the cost base of each South32 Share would be 7.1% per cent of A$34.00 or A$2.41 per share.

Your South32 Shares received pursuant to the Demerger Dividend will be taken to have been acquired on the same date as your original BHP Billiton Limited Shares for the purposes of applying the CGT discount on subsequent sale of the South32 Shares.

(ii) Pre-CGT Australian resident Shareholders that choose demerger tax relief

If you acquired your BHP Billiton Limited Shares before 20 September 1985 and you choose demerger tax relief, then your South32 Shares received pursuant to the Demerger Dividend will also be taken to have been acquired before 20 September 1985 and therefore will be treated as pre-CGT shares.

(iii) Pre-CGT Australian resident Shareholders that do not choose demerger tax relief

If you acquired your BHP Billiton Limited Shares before 20 September 1985 and you do not choose demerger tax relief in respect of your South32 Shares received pursuant to the Demerger Dividend, your South32 Shares will not be treated as pre-CGT shares. Therefore, your South32 Shares will be post-CGT shares.

You will have a tax cost base in each South32 Share equal to the market value of the South32 Shares on the Demerger Distribution Date. For Australian resident Shareholders, a reasonable estimate of the market value of each South32 Share on the Distribution Date is the South32 five-day VWAP of A$2.25.

For the purposes of applying the CGT discount on subsequent sale, your South32 Shares received pursuant to the Demerger Dividend are acquired on 24 May 2015.

Sale Facility

The Australian income tax implications of selling South32 Shares received pursuant to the Demerger Dividend via the Sale Facility will depend on whether the relevant BHP Billiton Limited Shares to which the South32 Shares correspond are pre-CGT BHP Billiton Limited Shares or post-CGT BHP Billiton Limited Shares, and if you are a pre-CGT BHP Billiton Limited Shareholder, whether you choose demerger tax relief. The Australian income tax implications will generally be the same as those set out above.

Yours sincerely,

Margaret Taylor
Group Company Secretary
