

Contacting Data Protection Authorities

Depending on where you are located, you may have the right to complain to your local data protection authority about the handling of your personal information.

We have outlined the contact details of a number of local data protection authorities below. Please contact the BHP Data Protection and Privacy Office if your country is not listed below.

Before raising a complaint with a data protection authority, we ask that you first raise the issue with us. We will make a record of your complaint and will deal with it as quickly as we can while keeping you informed of progress. Even if we are not able to address your concern, we will be able to provide further information about how you can contact a relevant data protection authority. For more information, please contact the BHP Data Protection and Privacy Office.
